Inside Altitude Veterinary Hospital

Dr. Schwahn joined the practice in 1999, and became an owner in 2001, when Dr. Popish retired. In recognition of this new chapter in the life of the clinic, we opened with a new name: Altitude Veterinary Hospital, in the fall of 2012. In January 2013, Dr. Tangney Gray became the hospital's newest partner/owner. Dr. Schwahn's special interests include dentistry, and he pursues continuing education in this area as often as his schedule permits. He is also a member of the Casper Rotary Club. Prior to entering the veterinary field, he served three years as a military policeman in the U.S. Army, during which time he was stationed in Germany. Dr. Schwahn and his wife, Michelle, have two children, a son, Taylor and a daughter, Madeline.

Dr. Tangney Gray-Dockham, a Casper native, graduated from Natrona County High School in 2003. She then pursued her undergraduate degree in biology from Casper College. During her undergraduate work, Dr. Gray began volunteering, and then working as a Veterinary Assistant at Altitude Veterinary Hospital (Popish Vet Clinic). Dr. Gray moved to Fort Collins in 2006 to attend veterinary school. In May of 2010, she graduated the Professional Veterinary Medical Program at Colorado State University, with honors. At this time, she re-joined the Altitude team as an associate veterinarian. In January of 2013 she became part-owner, partnering with Dr Schwahn. Her professional interests include internal medicine, surgery, and avian medicine.

Dr. Angela Bell is an Associate Veterinarian at Altitude. She completed her Bachelor's Degree from Brigham Young University-Idaho, her Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine from Ross University School of Medicine, and completed her clinical year at Kansas State University in 2012 and recently completed an advanced dental training course from Animal Dental Care and Oral Surgery Specialists in Colorado Springs and has also completed courses in oncology, chronic kidney disease, ophthalmology, wildlife and is currently working toward becoming Fear Free Certified. Angela enjoys serving the community both professionally and personally currently serving as a leader in the Wyoming Veterinary Medical Association (WVMA) and as a spokesman for the veterinary profession throughout the state of Wyoming.

Dr. Doug graduated from Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine in 2006. He worked in research at Pfizer Inc and the National Institutes of Health/National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease before moving to private practice in California. In January 2013 Dr. Doug and Dr. Laura became the new owners and veterinarians at Westside Animal Hospital.

Dr. Laura graduated from Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine in 2007. She worked at San Luis Rey Equine Hospital, an equine specialty hospital in southern California, as an intern for one year and as a clinician for three years. She worked at Tammany Veterinary Hospital in Corvallis, MT, as an ambulatory horse vet before moving back to California to practice small animal medicine and surgery.

Inside Broadmoor East Veterinary Clinic

Michael P. Driscoll grew up in Alabama and attended college and veterinary school at Auburn University, where he graduated from the College of Veterinary Medicine in 1980. After completing his education, he moved to Cheyenne in 1980 and in the summer of 1989, he opened Broadmoor East Veterinary Clinic.

Dr. Driscoll is a member of the Wyoming Veterinary Medical Association and has served as president, vice president, member at large, and other board positions and is active with the Cheyenne Veterinary Medical Association (CVMA). He is also a member of the Association of Avian Veterinarians (AAV), and a member of the International Veterinary Academy of Pain Management (IVAPM). Dr. Driscoll also served as the Ticket Committee Chairman for Cheyenne Frontier Days 2000-2002 and is currently serving as a member of the Cheyenne Frontier Days Buckle Club.

Dr. Driscoll and his wife, Beth, have two children, Jesse and Jeremiah, and three grandchildren Jackson, Raleigh, and Flynn.

Dr. Sara Oedekoven, otherwise known as "Dr. O", was born and raised in Wyoming. She went to the University of Wyoming to earn her bachelor's degree, then went on to Colorado State University to complete her veterinary degree in 2004. Dr. Oedekoven first practiced mixed large and small animal medicine in Western South Dakota for six years before returning to Wyoming and joining Broadmoor East in 2011.

Dr. Oedekoven and husband Kevin have two children, Levi and Cora.

Dr. Frawley grew up in southern California and attended California State Polytechnic University, Pomona to complete her bachelors' degree. She moved to Colorado to attend Colorado State University Veterinary Medical School and graduated in 2013. She moved to Cheyenne shortly after to join Broadmoor East.

Inside Cody Veterinary Hospital

A native of Cody, Dr. Moore opened the Cody Veterinary Hospital in 1989 after practicing with other vets in the area since 1983. He received his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine in 1983 from Kansas State University following his BS degree in Animal Science from the University of Wyoming. Dr. Moore is a mixed-animal specialist of all types with expertise in the collection, processing and certification of bovine embryos which are shipped all over the world.

Dr. White is a Wyoming native, growing up in Douglas where her interest in 4-H and FFA led her into the field of veterinary medicine. She obtained a degree in Animal Science and Pre-Vet from the University of Wyoming and received national and international recognition in horse judging. Dr. White received her DVM from Washington State University and has special interests in equine and bovine reproduction, equine lameness, equine sports medicine, herd production medicine and management as well as internal medicine of all species.

Dr. Stagner hails from Craig, CO, and, like Dr. White, drew her vocation from 4-H and FFA endeavors especially from raising pigs and showing horses. She graduated from the University of Wyoming with a bachelor's degree in Animal and Veterinary Science and then went on for her DVM at Oklahoma State University. Her professional interests are in the areas of bovine herd health and reproduction, swine production, small animal internal medicine and surgery in all species.

A native of Cody, Dr. Marsh opened Prairie Summit Veterinary Services in 2016 after spending several years in veterinary practice in Cody and Montana. She earned her B.S. degree from Colorado State University in 2007 and then obtained her DVM from CSU with honors in 2011.

Dr. Marsh has a life-long equine interest. Much of her time as an undergraduate was spent on the CSU Collegiate Equestrian Team, volunteering at the CSU Equine Reproduction Lab, and training/showing horses. While working towards her DVM she specifically focused on large animal medicine and reproduction. Dr. Marsh spent the majority of her time, especially in her last year of training, interning at renowned equine practices including Littleton Equine Medical Center, Tennessee Equine Hospital, Idaho Equine Hospital, CSU Equine Critical Care Service and the Sports Medicine Practice at the NRHA Derby in Oklahoma City. Additionally, she spent a large amount of time volunteering and working at the Equine Reproduction Lab, learning advanced reproductive techniques including embryo transfer and stallion collection and processing. Her greatest passion while at CSU; however, was being the Foal Care Unit Coordinator, which focused on coordinating over 50 volunteers to help with critical neonates in the Large Animal Unit.

Dr. Marsh is married, Trapper, with daughters Peyton and Mackenzie.

Inside Animal Medical Center

As the senior partner, Dr. Lynde opened the Animal Medical Center with Dr. Kohr back in 1991 and has seen the practice flourish over the past 25+ years. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Wyoming and then obtained his DVM from Colorado State University. He has special interests in internal medicine and dental care. Dr. Lynde's grandparents homesteaded in the Gillette area back in the early 1900s.

Dr. Kohr is the other founding partner of the AMC and grew up in rural Pennsylvania where he developed his interest in animals working on a farm. He and Dr. Lynde were classmates at Colorado State University as both graduated in 1989. Following two years of vet work in Nebraska, he reunited with Dr. Lynde to establish the AMC. Dr. Kohr has a strong interest in diagnosis and treatment of equine lameness and equine reproduction.

Dr. Hefftner joined AMC in 2016 bringing with her a lifelong passion for animals. She received both her DVM and undergraduate degrees from Colorado State University although she grew up in Albuquerque. She particularly enjoys internal medicine and critical care work and has helped raise puppies for the Guide Dogs for the Blind program.

Dr. Kalisch is a native of Minnesota and attended St. Cloud State University and the University of Minnesota before obtaining his DVM from the Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine in 2015. He joined the AMC in 2017 and enjoys surgery and working with small companion animals.

Dr. Lucas has been in Gillette since 1992 after working at a small animal practice in North Dakota. She did undergraduate work at North Dakota State University and then took her DVM at Kansas State University.

Dr. Powell has been with the AMC since 1999 after two years in practice in Abilene, TX. He obtained a Bachelor's degree from Abilene Christian University and then received his DVM from Texas A&M University.

Gillette

Growing up on a hog farm in Ohio, Dr. Young joined the AMC in 2013 after falling in love with Wyoming thanks to summer work at a guest ranch in the Big Horn Mountains outside of Buffalo.

A 2000 DVM graduate of Iowa State University she purchased two clinics in North Dakota shortly after graduation, but sold them in 2010 and 2012 at which time he joined the AMC as its after-hours on-call veterinarian. While in North Dakota he gained experience through a mobile bovine clinic.

A hometown Gillette product, Dr. Ernst joined the AMC in 1996 and currently serves on a part-time basis. She obtained her DVM from Washington State University and after practicing for a while in Montana she served three years in the Peace Corps. Following that she returned to practice in Montana before moving back to Gillette to join the AMC team,

She received her bachelor's degree in animal and veterinary science from the University of Wyoming and then completed her DVM at Colorado State University in 2007. She did an equine internship in Kentucky and has also practiced in Montana. Her interests include soft tissue and orthopedic surgery, diagnostic imaging and preventative medicine.

Dr. Pedersen was born and raised in Powell on a Heart Mountain ranch and took the exact same path as Dr. Pahl, obtaining a bachelor's degree in animal science from the University of Wyoming and a DVM in 2007 from Colorado State University. Again, like Dr. Pahl she has also practiced in Montana. Her special interests are in dentistry, preventative care and soft tissue surgery.

Inside Mountain View Veterinary Hospital

Dr. Pelissier founded the Mountain View Veterinary Hospital in 2004 and then oversaw its move into an ultra-modern facility in 2015. He received his DVM from Colorado State University in 2001 which included a one-year internship in medicine and surgery at the University of Georgia. His professional interests include oncology, orthopedics and soft tissue reconstructive surgery.

Dr. Newton hails from Buffalo and joins Dr. Pelissier as a co-owner of MVVH. He received his DVM from Washington State University in 2006 and served a medical and surgical internship at an animal referral and emergency center in Arizona. He practiced in Colorado before teaming up with MVVH. Professionally his key interests are internal medicine, ultrasonography and soft tissue and orthopedic surgery.

Dr. Ingersoll is a 2009 DVM graduate of Colorado State University and joined Mountain View back in 2013. Her professional interests include ultrasonography, internal medicine, trauma and surgery.

The newest staff member, Dr. Bialek graduated with her DVM from St. George's University in 2004 and spent the following 14 years practicing in Chicago. Steeped in medical knowledge she was an RN for 10 years before pursuing her veterinary career. Her key interests are internal medicine, ultrasonography, soft tissue surgery and wound care.

Inside Animal Eye Center

Dr. Roberts has spent his entire career involved in veterinary ophthalmology culminating with the founding of the Animal Eye center in 1998. He completed his residency at Colorado State University and then became board certified by the American College of Ophthalmologists in 1984. He then became an assistant professor of ophthalmology at North Carolina State University (1984-87) before returning to CSU as an assistant professor (1987-92) and then an associate professor (1992-97) before entering private practice.

Dr. Burgesser is both an Easterner and a Western. He joined the AEC in 2018 to complete a circuit of West-East-West. He earned his undergraduate degree in microbiology from Colorado State University and then completed a PhD in immunology at the University of Denver. He promptly returned to CSU to obtain his DVM with magna cum laude honors. Continuing his education he did an internship at Kansas State University in small animal medicine and surgery and then it was a residency at CSU in veterinary ophthalmology to complete a Master's in Clinical Sciences. At this point he journeyed east to serve as a clinical instructor in veterinary ophthalmology in Canada at the University of Guelph's Ontario Veterinary College. He then became a board certified ophthalmologist in 2000 and practiced in New York (2000-2017) before joining the AEC.

"Dr. Radka", as she is known, was born and raised in the Czech Republic where she earned her DVM in 2004 at the University of Veterinary and Pharmaceutical Sciences in Brno. After finishing a PhD program at the Department of Small Animal Surgery and Orthopedics, Dr. Andrysikova relocated to the United States where she completed a one year small animal internship at the Hollywood Animal Hospital in Hollywood, FL. Then she undertook a two-year ophthalmology internship at the Animal Eye Center in Loveland, CO in 2010. Following this, Dr. Andrysikova returned to Europe, where she completed her residency at the University of Zurich, Switzerland in 2014-2017. Dr. Andrysikova happily rejoined the Animal Eye Center in November 2017.

Inside Animal Clinic of Billings

A third-generation Montanan, Dr. Brown founded the Animal Clinic of Billings back in 1981 and later established the Animal Surgery Clinic of Billings and has been a mainstay of the Billings veterinary family for more than 35 years. He received his DVM in 1975 from Colorado State University following his B.S. degree in Veterinary Science. Prior to setting up operations in Billings he practiced in Arizona, Colorado, Texas, Hawaii and California.

Dr. Brown was named one of the top veterinarians in the country in 2014 by the Consumer Research Council of America thanks in part to his regenerative stem cell therapy work and creating the first underwater canine physical rehabilitation therapy facility and canine laser treatment center in Montana.

Dr. Brown especially likes orthopedic surgery and injury care.

Dr. Sherburne has been practicing for more than two decades following receipt of his DVM degree from Tufts University after a B.S. from the University of Vermont and an M.S. from Utah State University. He has a varied background having worked in such areas as large and small animal medicine and surgery, wildlife consulting on the state, national and international levels as well as practice ownership.

He has done extensive work in equine lameness and small animal surgery. Dr. Sherburne has made numerous research presentations at the Veterinary Orthopedic Society national meetings over the years. His main interests are in lameness, joint disease, fracture repair and developmental orthopedic disease and he enjoys spinal surgery and various soft tissue procedures.

Dr. Bryna Felchle

Dr. Bobbi Jo Massie

Dr. Christiane
Youngstrom

Like Dr. Brown, Dr. Felchle is a native of Montana and grew up on a small ranch in the Billings area. She received her DVM from Washington State University following a B.S. degree in Animal Science from Montana State University. While at MSU she served as an Ag Ambassador, traveling the state to promote agricultural education.

She has a life-long love of horses and continues to raise horses and cattle on her own. Her special interests are theriogenology, internal medicine, neurology, alternative/regenerative medicine, soft tissue surgery, preventative care, animal behavior and nutrition.

Yet another Montana native, Dr. Massie grew up just outside of Billings and joined the Animal Clinic of Billings in 2013. She graduated with honors in 2006 with a B.S. degree from Montana State University in biotechnology. After two years of medical research work she attended Washington State University and obtained her DVM in 2012.

Following graduation she returned to Billings for one year at an emergency care veterinary hospital before teaming up with the ACB. She helped establish a mentorship/internship program between the clinic and Washington State University and personally mentors vet students and high school students with a veterinarian interest.

She particularly enjoys advanced dentistry, clinical care for pocket pets and exotics, dermatology and allergy testing, feline health and medicine and small animal surgery.

A transplant from Ohio, Dr. Youngstrom she actually brought Montana connections with her to the job. Her grandfather was a homesteader around the turn of the 20th century near Red Lodge and established a successful cattle ranch that is still in business.

Dr. Youngstrom earned a B.A. degree in biology and archaeology from Cornell University and followed that up with her DVM from The Ohio State University. She dealt with a large number of emergency presentations during her internship, including toxicities, major trauma, heart failure, DKA, seizures, hemolytic crises, urethral blockage, acute renal failure, DIC, sepsis, pancreatitis, and GI obstructions.

Her professional interests include soft tissue and orthopedic surgery, theriogenology (reproduction), internal medicine and oncology, hospice and palliative care, feline medicine and surgery, shelter medicine and surgery, and honey bee health.
